

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼

North American Megadam Resistance Alliance

Protecting rivers and their communities by resisting megadams and their transmission corridors

MEDIA ALERT

Contact:North American Megadam Resistance Alliance*Meg Sheehan, Coordinator*T. 508-259-9154*coordinator.namra@gmail.com

National Day of Mourning on Thanksgiving Day in Plymouth: Indigenous speakers to confront cultural genocide of Canada's hydropower dams

Indigenous speakers from across Canada will join the 51st National Day of Mourning hosted by the United American Indians of New England on Thanksgiving Day in Plymouth, Massachusetts near Plymouth Rock. The live stream and pre-recorded content for the National Day of Mourning on November 26 can be viewed beginning at approximately 12 pm EST via the UAINE website, on the UAINE Facebook Group, or here.

This will be the fourth year the Day of Mourning hosts

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼

Electricity from the dams is promoted as clean energy and exported to the U.S. Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker supports a hydropower transmission corridor from Canada to Boston. The negative impacts on Indigenous communities and the environment are ignored by Massachusetts and other states.

Over 50% of hydroelectricity exported to Massachusetts is from stolen Indigenous lands. Visit Quebec Hydro Clash and 50 Years Past Due for more details.

The speakers are part of the North American Megadam Resistance Alliance (NAMRA) an international network of Indigenous people and allies. NAMRA's mission is to protect rivers and their communities from hydro dams falsely marketed as clean energy.

Photos from the 2019 National Day of Mourning in Plymouth, MA.

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

North American Megadam Resistance Alliance · 96 Shadagee Rd Unit 101 · Saco, ME 04072-2479 · USA

